Welcome to the 2024 IBAC Directory

The Isle of Bute Artists' Collective is preparing to welcome you to our eleventh Studio Trail in July. The friendly Isle of Bute has much to offer at any time of year but, with 35 artists taking part this year, there is a huge range of talent waiting for you on this particular weekend.

Working in glass, paint, clay, wood, ink, fabric, paper, precious metals and more, many artists will be offering original work available only here. Most will welcome you into their actual work spaces and some will be happy to give a short demonstration of their skills. Some will be selling from a venue along with other artists but all will be happy to meet you and chat.

As you go around our small but beautiful island to visit the widely differing venues, you will also be able to appreciate the glorious scenery that inspires so many of us. We all hope you enjoy the 2024 Studio Trail and will come again.

Mount Stuart & Bute Yard have once again been big supporters, hosting IBAC members at craft fairs throughout the year. Many members will also be selling their work in the Mount Stuart shop during the season.

IBAC is grateful to everyone who makes the Trail happen, individuals, businesses and especially you, the visitors. A really big thank you to all of you for supporting us and have fun!

Alison Clarke

Chair, Isle of Bute Artists' Collective (IBAC)

Useful Information

Getting to Bute: Ferry from Colintrave to Rhubodach or Wemyss Bay to Rothesay. See www.calmac.co.uk for details.

Getting around Bute: A regular bus service operates from Rhubodach to Kilchattan Bay and can be boarded at Guildford Square, opposite the ferry terminal. More details can be found at www.westcoastmotors.co.uk/services.

Following the Trail: You can follow the trail in either direction. All roads lead back to Rothesay.

Isle of Bute Artists' Collective

The work required to run the Isle of Bute Artists' Collective and put on the annual studio trail, along with participating in other events, is carried out by volunteers. As well as participating in the events, many of our members take on additional responsibilities to ensure that these events can happen. A big thanks to everyone who has helped.

Anne Donald ~ Pastel Artist

Anne is a pastel painter who is inspired by Impressionism. She has developed her style to produce works of a more contemporary nature. Paintings range from land and seascapes to pieces more abstract in form. On display will be cards, prints and a variety of original works.

Fauldmore Creations ~ Made in Bute

Mags MacLaren creates an eclectic range of jewellery, mixed media artwork and photo art prints from her home on the Isle of Bute. Her work is inspired by her photo art prints, musical influences and the changing scenery around Bute. Many of the pieces will belong to a collection, including the very popular "Blues Beach" collection which was created from a photograph taken at Ettrick Bay. Mags also works with clients to create one-off pieces of jewellery and personalised photo art prints.

Yennie Van Oostende ~ Serendipity Arts

Drawing inspiration from my surroundings and daily walks on the beach, I incorporate colours, moods and found objects to create a serendipity of mixed media art pieces. I enjoy using papers, plant fibres and textiles in most of my free machine embroidered work, or finding new uses for printed and collaged materials in my hand made cards, often linking back to the Isle of Bute. Although I like to work with natural fibres, I won't shy away from adding some glitz, shine and sparkle, to uplift the mood and spirit. I occasionally organise a "play day" where we can experiment and share our passion for mixed media arts. You coming along?

AniMac Design

Annie McAllister designs and makes jewellery, cards & wedding stationery from her little rooftop studio in High Craigmore. She has recently collaborated with Ortak in Orkney to make her exclusive BOMBUS collection.

For Open Studios, Annie exhibits from the terrace at her studio address and will be on-hand to discuss and demonstrate her work. Jewellery, cards and wedding stationery will be on show and Annie can make/adjust bespoke pieces to order on the day.

Sarah Jane Hemsley Upholstery

Sarah Jane is a professional traditional upholsterer running her own upholstery business for over 12 years. Initially based in South West London Sarah Jane returned to Bute, her childhood home, in summer 2022. Working from her home studio she restores, revives and reupholsters family heirlooms, charity shop finds and high street purchases.

In 2019 whilst upholstering a clients armchair she had an idea to create her own repeat designs on textiles. Using original artwork by her childhood art teacher and family friend, Lyn Bulloch, the scenic illustrative designs of The Bulloch Collection were born.

Digitally printed on organic cotton or natural linen, the designs have been handmade in the UK into a range of soft furnishings, gift accessories and used by Sarah Jane to reupholster restored vintage furniture.

Liz Wren

My impressionistic, acrylic landscapes are mostly of Bute. The scenic beauty and the ever changing light a joy to capture. Such an inspiring island.

“The Way We Were” watercolour range was initially inspired from old photographs and old family tales of village life in Kilchattan Bay...these are now in card and print form with an occasional original appearing!

Ruth Slater ~ Artist

I am a contemporary artist creating truly unique art in various media from my purpose built studio on Bute's west coast. Inspired by my surroundings, my artwork captures the gorgeous nature of animals and the natural world. Illustrating is also a large part of my work and I love working with clients to bring their vision to life.

Gordon Stevenson ~ Standing Stone Crafts

Gordon returned to Bute in 1993 and retrained in heritage woodwork, woodland skills and boat master qualifications. He has a strong interest in Celtic history, particularly folklore, and now produces a range of artefacts (crooks, knives, sign dubs, etc) from locally sourced antler, horn and indigenous woods. Gordon works from Wood Watch heritage, The Woodlanders and Standing Stone Crafts.

Promises ~ Debbie Willett

Debbie Willett is an artist who makes unique and often one off pieces of jewellery in silver and gold. Debbie learned her skills at Glasgow School of Art. Working under the name of Promises, the jewellery is made in her studio in Port Bannatyne using traditional silversmithing techniques. Alongside the jewellery, Debbie also makes wee felt mice known as the Port Mice, and also some unusual miniatures. Debbie's love of miniatures can also be reflected in the silver jewellery.

Mike Hislop ~ Isle of Bute Fused Glass Art

Glass with a past. Up-cycled and repurposed beautiful fused glass art.

In my Port Bannatyne, based kiln-forming studio I create abstract fully fused glass art, along with more specific structured glass art, all using up-cycled and repurposed glass.

By fusing glass in my large kiln, unique and beautiful contemporary designs are produced for framed, mounted or freestanding art pieces, and also one-off unique jewellery.

Commissions welcomed.

Caro Preston

I work abstractly engaging in the flow of creative process; using multi-media materials, natural pigments, textures, my feelings and memories - interested in what we take from our surroundings not just how we might represent it. I try to work as sustainably as possible, recycling, ... cloth, canvas, collage, painting, printing, drawing using non-toxic mediums as far as I can.

Alison Clarke - Bute Crafts

Fortunate enough to work in a studio looking out over the water to the mainland, this view, or versions of it, often appear in my work. Mostly using a sewing machine and the free motion technique - in effect 'drawing' with thread - I make bags, wall hangings, jewellery, cards and more. Rather than useful most of what I make is intended to give joy. I enjoy making it, I hope you will enjoy seeing it.
